

In some cases the difference (distortion) between horizontal ground distance and state plane grid distance is larger than acceptable. An elevated reference surface projection can be used to reduce the distance distortion.

See: "Design of a Local Coordinate System for Surveying, Engineering and LIS/GIS," by Earl F. Burkholder, ACSM Surveying & Land Information Systems, March, 1993.